CHRISTMAS SHOPPER ATTACKED BY NEGRO

ATTEMPT MADE TO SNATCH A HAND BAG FROM MISS BERTHA STONE PROVED UNSUCCESSFUL—NEGRO MADE ESCAPE.
Miss Bertha Stone, of 109 Bay street, was attacked by a negro on North Palmetto avenue, Christmas eve, while returning home from a shopping expedition down town, the man's intention evidently being to snatch her arm a leather hand bag. He failed in the attempt, however, and fled.
Miss Stone had both arms full of packages and the bag was hanging from her right arm, but at the same time she firmly grasped with her right hand and although the negro broke the heavily platted or woven leather handle he did not succeed in loosening it from the bag. One of the packages fell to the pavement, but the man's nerve evidently deserted him and he made no further attempt to molest Miss Stone.
The attempted hold-up was made in the partial shadow of some trees on the west side of North Palmetto avenue just north of the First Baptist church where the negro fled in the direction of Bay street. The time was somewhere between 9:00 and 10:00 o'clock.
Miss Stone says that shortly after she turned from Volusia into Palmetto street she was aware that some one was behind her but thought nothing of it and was taken utterly by surprise when the negro, who, she says, was tall and slender and dark skinned, brushed against her in passing and tried to grab the bag. It was all done so quickly that she did not even cry for help and apparently there was

ATTENDED BY MANY
The formal opening dance of the Allandale club Christmas night was largely attended by young people from Daytona, New Smyrna and Port Orange. Music was furnished by the New Daytona theatre orchestra.
Mrs. Wm. Garrison arrived Thursday from Charlotte, N. C., to remain over the holidays with J. B. Garrison and family at their home in Palmetto Park. Mrs. Garrison's daughter, Miss Minerva Garrison, has been visiting her uncle and family in this city for several weeks.

FLORIDA SUPREME COURT SAYS THE SENTENCE STANDS

CHARLEY BENNETT OF DELAND
MUST STAND CONVICTED OF LARCENY—OBJECTED TO THE SHERIFF'S TESTIMONY.
That Charley Bennett, a white man of Deland, must stand convicted of larceny, is the opinion of the supreme court of Florida, handed down this week sustaining the judgment of the lower court. Bennett was convicted of the alleged crime of stealing a suit case from a railroad train, and sought relief from the conviction.
Among the errors assigned is that the court erred in permitting witness for state, E. L. Smith, to testify as to statements made by defendant while executing a search warrant over the objection of attorney for defendant; also that the court erred in denying motion of defendant attorney to strike testimony of E. L. Smith on the ground that it is improper. "The judgment is affirmed."

CLEVELAND HOTEL ENTERTAINED GUESTS

SANTA CLAUS ARRIVES AT MIDNIGHT AND FILLS 35 STOCKINGS WITH GIFTS AND SWEETMEATS. REAL YULETIDE CELEBRATION.

The Cleveland hotel on Christmas eve was the scene of a real Yuletide celebration, arranged and carried out to a fine finish by mine host and hostess, Mr. and Mrs. M. I. Myers, for the benefit of the guests and employees of the hotel.

A notice had been posted in the lobby of the hotel during the early part of the week requesting every member of the household to leave a stocking or sox with the clerk at the desk. This request was complied with pretty thoroughly and a committee was later appointed to buy gifts, candy, pop-corn and fruit, with which to fill the stockings.

At five minutes to 12:00 the parlor curtains were drawn aside and the guests, who had all assembled and were seated in the lobby, beheld Santa Claus seated in one corner of the room with a long line of stockings of different sizes and colors, attached to a line that extended from one side of the room to the other. All present were then requested to sit on the floor, which they did, directly in front of the line of stockings, and old Santa distributed his gifts to the person whose name appeared on a card attached to the stocking.

There were all manner of presents, from a tin automobile for the proprietor, to a five-cent looking glass for the best looking girl in the house. Of course Santa Claus, who, by the way proved to be none other than H. W. Seig, a local Western Union operator, had something funny to say with every presentation. A large bowl of punch adorned one corner of the parlor which served to stimulate good cheer throughout the evening.

Among those present was a troupe of vaudeville artists, who are occupying the boards at the New Daytona theater this week. Their singing and dancing added much to the success of the evening's entertainment. "Shadow" Baker, one of the theatrical company, furnished music for dancing which was indulged in until an early hour.

As the guests departed to their rooms a vote of thanks was extended to Mr. and Mrs. Myers for their kind and thoughtful consideration in providing a whole lot of enjoyment especially for a "bunch" of young fellows whose hearts are in the right place, but for various reasons were deprived of spending Christmas at home with the old folks.

A Pig's Tail.

There is a proverb that "you can't make a whistle out of a pig's tail," but Popular Mechanics tells of a man who has made one. He allowed the tail to harden and then carved out a whistle which gave as good a tone as any.

CHILDREN ENJOY XMAS TREE AT THE THEATER

The many children crowding upon the stage at the New Daytona theater Christmas afternoon after the matinee to receive a present from a real live Santa Claus, formed a pretty picture. A tree 22 feet high had been provided, and it surely was a beauty. Literally loaded down with presents and ornaments it formed a pretty sight, but it was a rather sick looking piece of forestry when each little tot had been given a gift. The children had a good time alright.

FORMER WINTER RESIDENT TO SPEND SEASON IN CUBA

Marion H. Rogers, former winter resident of this city, and with many friends in Daytona and vicinity, will leave from Mill River, Mass., for change of address of his copy of the Gazette-News from that place to White Plains, N. Y., and then to Havana, Cuba, Jan. 1.

We expect to sail on the Lenape of the Clyde line, January 8th, and after arriving at Jacksonville on that day, to go through Daytona, on that day, to Key West, and then to Havana, Cuba, where we plan to spend most of the winter. On the return trip we may stop in Daytona for a short visit.

The weather up here for the past few days has been the coldest we have experienced in twenty years, having reached zero one morning. As in Florida, the climate is always "thrown in" with land deals, and here it comes to us as we make good use of it, though there is some ozone mixed with it in some mysterious way; but we wouldn't buy any of the chilly stuff placed upon a bargain counter. And yet, I have heard some people who pass for sane and very decent people say that they "like it."

CHRISTMAS EXERCISES AT THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH

The Christian church building was well filled Wednesday evening by members of the congregation and their friends, drawn together to witness the Christmas exercises of the Sunday school. A handsome tree held presents for all the children of the Sunday school and an interesting program added to the pleasure of the occasion. The program opened with a beautiful exercise by the children of the elementary division of the school, entitled, "Gold, Frankincense and Myrrh." Recitations, songs and special Christmas music followed and the program closed with a playlet, "Gifts of Love," by five of the Sunday school girls.

Still Human.

Bureaus of municipal research are supposed to know just how to make things run smoothly, but it seems that they are not all endowed with facilities for producing perfect peace and efficiency among themselves.

If it requires great tact to know how to speak to the purpose, it requires no less to know when to be silent.—La Rochefoucauld.

NORTHERN BISHOP HELD SERVICES CHRISTMAS DAY

Bishop F. A. McElwain of Fairbault, Minn., preached an able and interesting sermon Christmas morning to a large congregation at St. Mary's Episcopal church. There was also special music for the occasion by the choir. Mrs. W. E. Hitebeck, who was to have sung the offertory solo, had contracted a cold and was unable to take part and the offertory was sung instead by W. J. McDonald, a member of the choir. Bishop McElwain will conduct the services again at St. Mary's church tomorrow morning at the usual hour, 11:00 o'clock. The bishop arrived Christmas eve and joined Mrs. McElwain at the Princess Isabella hotel at Seabreeze, where she has been a guest for several weeks.

An Odd Crime.

Lady Bowyer-Smith is an English woman who has been guilty of the crime of vulpicide, which is simply in plain English that she has killed a fox in some other way than the English way, with the hounds. It is considered almost as great a crime to kill a man for anyone to shoot or otherwise make way with a fox, which is regarded as the special prey of the hounds.—Cincinnati Times-Star.

For the few remaining days of the old year Helen Purdie makes a special Xmas offer. The balance of her beautiful and high-class stock of hats will be sold, at from one dollar to five dollars. (The ordinary selling price of these hats ranged from twenty dollars down to five dollars.) Most of them are the well-known Hyland hats, which guarantee their quality. This offer will only be available for a limited period.

ENTERTAINED CHRISTMAS EVE AT RIDGEWOOD AVENUE HOME

Mr. and Mrs. Roland E. Stevens entertained with a delightful Christmas party at their home on South Ridgewood avenue, on Christmas eve. The guests numbered between 35 and 40, and varied in age from one to 80 years, but for the time being all were children and entered with childhood's zest into the fun of the jolly party. The Stevens' home, so beautifully adapted to entertaining, was decorated with Christmas greens, and an immense electrically-lighted tree, gayly decorated with tinsel and bright ornaments, occupied the center of the living room.

Santa Claus made his appearance in the regulation Santa Claus garb shortly after 7:00 o'clock, and with witty remarks distributed the gifts from the tree, each present being especially appropriate to the recipient.

Delicious refreshments of orange ice, homemade cakes and candies and salted nuts were served, and the guests lingered long, loath to leave the hospitable scene.

Mr. and Mrs. Stevens were assisted in entertaining their guests by their three beautiful children, and all the other "children" guests, great and small, who enjoyed the evening, departed, declaring it a most delightful Christmas party.

CHRISTMAS ENTERTAINMENT BY GUESTS OF TROY HOTEL

Among the many entertainments on Christmas eve in Daytona was the one enjoyed by the guests of the Troy hotel.

It has been the custom for many years for the guests of this hotel to celebrate Christmas in the old-fashioned way. A large Christmas tree was erected in the parlors and the entire house was beautifully decorated. The entertainment was begun with a musical program. Rodney Kincaid and Mrs. Shinn of Chattanooga, Tenn., rendered several instrumental selections. Miss Hill, of Hendersonville, N. C., and Mr. Cary, of Wilkesburg, Pa., entertained with vocal solos. Next on the program was a Christmas salutation presented by Mrs. Harrison Coleman, of Saginaw, Mich. Then followed the presentation of a 6x12 American flag to Mrs. Troy, the proprietress of the Troy hotel, a gift of all the guests. The presentation speech was made by C. J. Hartman of Napoleon, Ohio. Next was heard the jingle of the bells in the distance, which caused old and young to take note of the arrival of Santa Claus with his heavy laden pack. Mr. Shinn, of Chattanooga, Tenn., acted the part of Santa. All received a present and a stocking filled with nuts and candy. Great fun was had opening the presents.

There were about a hundred present and all report a most enjoyable time. The flag raising was participated in Christmas morning at 9:00 o'clock. All guests were present and sang the "Star Spangled Banner" as Old Glory was unfurled.

Recognized Word at Once.

A little nine-year-old boy was laboriously looking up his spelling words in the dictionary when he came upon one whose meaning was perfectly apparent to him. He dashed off a sentence containing the word "capsize" and passed to the next. Imagine the teacher's amusement when he recited glibly, "My capsize is No. 6."—De-linicator.

Polygamy in the Doll House.

"You've had this sailorboy doll a long time, Annie," said a mother to her little daughter, "and the janitor's little girl is ill, and hasn't any doll to play with. Don't you want to send her your sailorboy?" "I'd rather she had any one of the others," was the surprising answer. "You see, mamma, that's the only man we have in the family, and he's married to all the other dolls."—Youth's Companion.

PARDON BOARD CONSIDERS CASES FROM VOLUSIA COUNTY

SOME DENIED; OTHERS PASSED FOR FURTHER CONSIDERATION AND ONE IS CONDITIONALLY GRANTED.

The state board of pardons, in session at Tallahassee, considered a number of cases of convictions from Volusia county, as follows:

Henry Frazier.

An application was presented for the pardon of Henry Frazier from a conviction of rape and sentence to imprisonment for life by the circuit court for Volusia county at the fall term, 1909. After due consideration it was ordered that the said application be denied.

Eddie Coleman.

An application was presented for the pardon of Eddie Coleman from a conviction for aggravated assault and sentenced to pay a fine of $250 and costs, or serve ten months' imprisonment by the criminal court of record for Volusia county at the May term, 1914. It was ordered that this application be passed for further investigation and consideration by the board.

Walter Bonum.

It was ordered that this application be passed for further investigation and consideration by the board.

Paul C. Morton.

George King.

An application was presented for the pardon of George King from a conviction of murder in the first degree with a recommendation to the mercy of the court and sentence to imprisonment for life by the circuit court of Volusia county at the fall term, 1914. After due consideration it was ordered that the said application be denied.

Alfred McDonald, Anchor Damgard, C. J. Thorp and Harry Sargent.

An application was presented for the pardon of Alfred McDonald, Anchor Damgard, C. J. Thorp and Harry Sargent from convictions for fishing in violation of law and sentence to imprisonment in the county jail for seventy-five days of the criminal court of record of Volusia county, at the June term, 1913. It being shown to the board that it has long been the practice of the said court to impose upon defendants of this class of cases the alternative of paying a fine and costs or serving a prison sentence; and that at the same term of the said court at which applicants were convicted more than a dozen other defendants convicted upon the same charge were granted such alternative though same was denied these applicants; and it being shown that this was these applicants' first offenses against the criminal law; and a strong showing having been presented to the board that applicants had previously enjoyed good reputations, and these applicants for relief being endorsed and urged by four of the six trial jurors; it was ordered that the above mentioned sentences be commuted to sentences that these applicants do pay to the proper officer of Volusia county fines in the sum of $100 and the costs of the prosecution each, in default of which payments they shall serve the sentences of imprisonment imposed by the court as above stated.

GERMANY USES STAGE TRICK TO SWELL PROCESSION OF PRISONERS

Order to Give Air of Verisimilitude to Tales of Foe's Regiments Annihilated. Trainloads of Captives Are Sent Through Same Town Many Times—Belgian Trooper Becomes Peeved at Twelfth Trip Through Aix-la-Chapelle.

London.—It is a relief to extract a humor out of this tragic war, and English alike are wondering and laughing not a little, at the number of prisoners taken by the Germans, according to their reports, are capturing, both east and west. If they had taken as many prisoners as they say they have they would have no enemy to fight. But the explanation is simple enough. Take one instance.

Says who was at Aix-la-Chapelle the beginning of this month, and is now at Basle, writes:

The German government is very anxious in its efforts to keep up the morale of the population. It reports the annihilation of regiment after regiment daily, and in order to foster the delusion it has to produce formidable columns of French, British and American prisoners. Aix-la-Chapelle is a spectacular spot chosen. It is the railway station in the German zone just now. The German general sends long train loads of prisoners through this junction going east every day. You can imagine how impressive it is. You can also imagine the industriously record the newspaper correspondents to Berlin, not forgetting the downcast demeanor of the prisoners and the cheers of the German populace.

The crowds are unaware that these are switched onto a loop line at night, and return in triumph the next day. The other morning a Dutchman was watching one of them go slowly. He saw a Belgian soldier excitedly recanting at an open carriage window. He was shouting: "This is a wealth time we have come through this station."

Fight for Pig Under Fire.

Very little scares us nowadays," says an artilleryman from the front. "The Germans are in the rear and are as reluctant as carillon bells to leave. Last night we heard footstep, an odd noise like "patapoum, patapoum." Was it a batch of German deserters coming to us, or outposts returning with some warning? I peered into the darkness, and within a few feet of my head was a fat pig. He was more frightened than I, and decamped. We followed, and in five minutes Mr. Cochon was tied to the wheel of an ammunition cart. He grunted all night long.

"Next morning men from the neighboring battery heard of our interesting capture and claimed it as theirs. What cheek! We squabbled, and everybody asserted his right to the prisoner. Suddenly shrapnel began to fall in the midst of the debate. Did Prussian shells stop the row over that pig? No, sir! For ten more minutes the two batteries argued, while bullets flew and the pig squealed.

"The chef of a portable kitchen has his little joke. 'How polite the Boches are,' he said. 'They even send us their marmites (black Marias) in which to cook our puddings.' Then along came the captain. 'In the name of heaven!' he exclaimed, 'get back to your 75's. Cut the pig in two!' A military Solomon had solved the difficulty and both battalions had pork for supper that night."

Germans Without Humor.

Describing the conditions surrounding the British army, a lieutenant in the Royal Army Medical corps, writing home, says:

"In front of us are the German trenches, only a hundred yards away. A bobbing head, a shaking fist, an occasional spade wave, bespeak the presence of our foe. Yesterday one of our merry men fixed up a target. On white paper he drew a bull's-eye with a charred stick, tied it on a cardboard box, placed it in front of the trench and with flag behind recorded the misses of our friend Fritz. I feel sure that if in those trenches we had a more humorous foe instead of the phlegmatic Teuton we might pass away many of the weary hours of watching in friendly joke. But we are up against a wary foe. There is no leisure, for barbed wire, artfully contrived hoops and loopholes forever claim the attention of our brave men.

"There are times, though, even under fire, when the humor of our soldiers bursts forth. On one occasion, after a German shell had fired some wood, our men, seeing the fire, seized the opportunity to cook their food. Yesterday I heard an amusing story under trying circumstances told concerning a man in the regiment lying in the thin red line next to us. Shrapnel had burst, killing two men on his left and badly shattering another. He was trying to light a pipe, and having some difficulty he said to his mate, 'Sure 'tis Belgian tobacco, and these French matches will be the death of me.'

German Shot Spoils Milking.

"I sometimes help the officers to censor the men's letters home. One man says, 'We shall have shells for breakfast—not egg-shells. I shall be in Berlin in a fortnight, and I'll send you some sausages.' I overheard on the march one 'Pat' say to another, 'I never believe anything I hear, and only half of what I say.'

Here are two humorous touches from the letter of a Dublin fusilier:

"At one point of the line German and French troops were not more than one hundred yards apart. They could hear each other talk, and sometimes talked to each other. One day a cow strayed between the lines. Both sides wanted milk. They agreed whoever hit a horn first would be let milk the cow. The first shot came from the German lines. Had as usual, it killed the cow."

"When both sides dig in there is continuous rifle sniping, on the German side usually very bad. An officer of ours with a sense of humor put up a target for them to practice on and gave them a marker with a flag to signal the misses. The target was pretty large, with a sketch of the Kaiser's head and shoulders for a bull's-eye. Only one shot was fired at it, and that bullet hit the Kaiser right under the chin. We appreciated the joke."

Death of the Gallant Lancer.

And here is one about a gallant Irishman with some pathos in it:

"One afternoon when I was riding from the transport to the battalion I met a lancer going the same road. We were chums at Aldershot a couple of years ago. I met his wife when he brought her to the married quarters, a bonnie bride. He was a squat little Irishman with a pair of lively eyes that spoke the language of all tongues.

He had fought at Mons and been right through the campaign, and as we rode together through the town we talked over past and present. As we passed a butcher's shop a pretty girl came to the door and gave him 'Bonjour,' with a charming smile. Against regulations he doffed his cap and made her a sweeping bow. Their eyes met—it was a mere passing salute, but one could see he had passed that way before. He turned to me with a light laugh. 'We are all single at the seaside.'

"Two days afterward I made the same journey on foot. Just at that same shop door I met a stretcher—my lancer friend was lying on it—shrapnel through the chest! As I spoke to the stretcher bearers the girl came to the door. Her grief was passionate. I doubt if the wounded man was conscious of her tears. Later in the day I called at the field hospital. He was dead. A woman in Ireland is teaching his little one to pray for his soul. A girl in France is putting flowers on his grave."

ALIENS STILL SERVE LONDON

Wholesale Dismissal of German Waiters Did Not Help British Brethren.

London.—According to the Central Unemployed Body for London the wholesale dismissal during the last month of German and Austrian waiters has not helped the English waiter. The vacated places have been filled by Italians, Frenchmen and Dutchmen.

The explanation is that waiting on table is not a business which the Englishman adopts very rapidly and that the vast army of waiters, who usually, at this time go to the South of France and Italy, find no market for their services in these countries and are eager for work in London.

BRITISH PAID BY FRANCE

Republic Bears Cost of Auxiliary Troops Even to the Provisioning.

Berlin.—The Berliner Tageblatt publishes an account of a wounded German officer upon his return from France, in which he says:

"The French government bears the cost of paying the British auxiliary troops, each man getting four francs (80 cents) for each day on which no fighting takes place, while on 'battle days' each man gets eight francs ($1.60) per day. Besides, the entire British force now on French soil is provisioned at the expense of the French government."

London.—The Victoria Cross has been bestowed on Private George Wilson, Second Battalion Highland Light Infantry, for "most conspicuous gallantry near Verneuil, in attacking a hostile machine gun."

The official announcement describing Private Wilson's gallantry says:

"He was accompanied by only one man. When the latter was killed he went on alone and shot the officer and six men who were working the gun, which he captured."

AN ATTRACTIVE CHRISTMAS TREE AT WINTER RESIDENCE

One of the prettiest effects imaginable in the way of a Christmas tree was presented Christmas eve at the winter residence of J. C. Liken, Ridge-wood and Second avenue.

A bay window formed an alcove sufficiently large to contain the tree, a northern fir, and the effect was heightened by the opening to this alcove being partly closed by an arch of greenery, outlined with twinkling electric lights in miniature bulbs.

This decorative work was done by Fred W. Skirlo, who, with his family form part of Mr. Liken's household, and Mr. and Mrs. Skirlo's five-months old baby girl, Ellen Gretchen, was one of the most interested spectators of the fairy scene presented by the tree and its surroundings.

The tree was beautifully trimmed and lighted by small electric lights. The floor surrounding the tree represented a snow scene which was very realistic, and the Christmas presents were piled about the foot of the tree.

A number of children of the neighborhood participated in the pleasure of the tree and there were also a number of friends of Mr. Liken and Mr. and Mrs. Skirlo present and later in the evening refreshments were enjoyed.

Corpse-like Silence of the Still Living Paralyzes One With the icy Horror of a Hideous Nightmare.

By J. H. PHILLIPS.

(Chicago Evening Post.)
Montreux, Northern France.—It is the unearthly silence of the wounded which appalls one!

The ambulance trains—strings of rough box cars—pull in from the front. And there on the floor, amid the straw, lie the bandaged men, voiceless and motionless.

If only the nondescript lumps of human flesh writhed about and moaned, the ghastly spectacle could not be so hideous as is this corpse-like silence of still living men! It paralyzes one with the icy horror of a nightmare. The ambulances, not hospital trains, those convoys might be called.

Two cars stand sidetracked at the station of Montreux, where there is situated a hospital base organized by Dr. L. Haden Guest, the famous English surgeon, and his wife, in co-operation with the French Red Cross.

In one of the cars several nurses spend every night; in the other, two doctors. For they must be promptly on hand when the hospital trains come in. I stayed with the doctors one night.

About two in the morning—it was black outside and bitterly cold—we heard a commotion on the adjacent track—whistles and the creaking of brakes. And before the incoming train of wounded had jerked itself painfully to a standstill our head doctor was hurrying up the rails, a flickering lantern in hand.

"How many?" he called in French to the guard.

"About two hundred, monsieur," came the reply from a dim silhouette, fumbling at the door of a car. "The worst cases are in here, monsieur. Some of 'em's dead, I guess, by now."

The doctor clambered into the car and picked his way among the men with his lantern. The nurses and a number of bearers with stretchers had already gathered about the door.

The worst cases were taken out to an ill-smelling freight shed across the tracks—the emergency hospital, where the nurses, kneeling on the ground, dressed the wounds. A hundred others were sent uptown to the main Montreux hospital—a china factory, donated to the Red Cross by the proprietors. The half-dozen new dead were laid in grimly contorted positions on the station platform to be disposed of later, and then the train, still laden with scores of sufferers so racked with pain as to be utterly exhausted and indifferent to the torture of this endless trip, moved onward again, its destination the great hospitals at Fontainebleau.

This is a scene of almost every night. It is a scene which is being enacted not only here at Montreux but at scores of other hospitals.

Mrs. Guest, wife of the doctor in charge, told me of one French soldier who lay in bed with both legs and one arm amputated.

"He had the face of a saint," she said. "And the only words we ever heard from the poor boy were apologies for all the trouble he was giving us! 'If I only had another arm I might play cards with that fellow next me,' he would say. That would take his mind off his sufferings."

"We would have had to amputate the boy's other arm also, but death forestalled us," said Mrs. Guest.

Imagine a human head with the entire face gone save for a portion of the covering of the jaw!

"That is what you would see under that great bloody bandage," whispered Doctor Guest to me, pointing to a motionless figure. "The vocal cords were visible when we took off the field dressings!"

And in the next cot a cheerful Teuton was sitting up joking with an attendant about the "eats." He insisted that he had been served no meal for half an hour and was famished.

"That man's case is simply marvelous," said Doctor Guest. "He had half a dozen bullets in his head, yet after a terrible operation he has been gaining strength so fast we can hardly keep him in bed."

"Last night we had an eerie experience. We were suddenly awakened by a deep bass voice calling piteously: 'Mother, mother!' An English 'Tommy' shot in the head, had become insane and was literally an infant crying in the night." He died in the course of an hour. His mother will never know how her brave son called upon her for help at the last. His was just an ordinary death. We have had as many as seven such deaths out of twenty-five beds in one night!"

A Serious Offense.

London.—Wrongfully to call a man a German is a serious matter in England just now, and likely to prove expensive. The London Mail has just been ordered to pay $2,500 for doing this in the case of Mark Hambourg, the pianist, who, a Russian by birth, is now a British subject.

Cut Out Football.

London.—Because football playing in England interferes with recruiting and distracts attention from the war, London newspaper proprietors have agreed to print nothing but the results of matches.

To Test Suspected Coin.

There is a very simple means of testing a suspected coin, which can be applied in any circumstances. Take a good coin and vigorously rub its milled edge against that of the suspect. If the coin on trial is a "wrong 'un" it will peel off, or at least show signs of flaking. If the edge bears the test the coin may safely be accepted. This advice was given by an officer of the criminal investigation department of England, who declared it to be a certain test.

Complimentary.

The bishop of London, speaking recently, said that churches did not drop down from heaven any more than bishops, though a little girl in his congregation, evidently under that delusion, had recently said to her mother during a tiring sermon: "I am tired now, mother; can't the bishop go back to heaven?"

A Circular Tour.

Mary had a little ring, 'twas given her by Joe, and everywhere that Mary went that ring was sure to go. She took the ring with her one day, when she went out to tea, where she might show it to the girls, who numbered twenty-three. And when the girls all saw the ring they made a great ado, exclaiming with one voice: "Has it at last got round to you?"

Was a Privileged Bee.

Hazel, aged four, was spending the day with her aunt. While there a bee stung her. When she returned home that evening her father asked her if she killed the bee and she replied: "Why, no, papa; it was Aunt Jane's bee."

SINGS TO SOLDIERS

Breton Bard Inspires Spirit of French Armies.

Under Orders of Minister of War He Travels From Camp to Camp Entertaining Men With Stirring Ballads.

Paris.—The role that the minstrel Taillefer played at Hastings, that Roland took at Roncevaux and Blondel filled when he found the imprisoned Richard Coeur de Lion in an Austrian castle is being played in the present war by Theodore Botrel, the Breton poet, who has been sent to the fighting line by M. Millerand, the minister of war, to sing and recite patriotic and warlike chansons to the French soldiers, to inspire them to mighty deeds.

For the last month or more the picturesque Breton singer, with his sleek hair, his wide hat brim, his flying ribbon and voluminous velvet breeches, looking for all the world like the painted figure on a piece of Breton pottery, has been traveling, staff in hand, from camp to camp, entertaining the fighting men of France with stirring ballads. Botrel's work smacks of ancient warfare and its customs more even than the breastplates, hand grenades and spears which have proved their value on several occasions.

The soldiers are gathered together in a big hall, an impromptu and generally insecure platform is rigged up and Botrel stands forth to recite his songs, some in the Breton dialect, others in French, but all touched with the lyric flame that carries simple words and simple thoughts straight to the hearts of the hearers.

Botrel's inspiration is not of the kind that soars high and far, but here, face to face with the troops who are bearing themselves so gallantly in the east, he has found again the fire of his earlier days and the flame of patriotism burns bright and strong in these metrical chants which he utters with a touching simplicity and childlike earnestness.

The war bard is filling a useful role; he helps to promote cheerfulness and optimism, and does much to relieve the monotony of life in a fort. He cannot complain of monotony. Since August 30, when he set forth on this novel mission to a defensive army

Botrel has seldom slept in a bed and perhaps never twice in the same place.

But as he himself remarks, he fares no worse than the soldiers to whom he is sent, and he travels and tramps as best he can, arriving always in good spirits, and exuding cheerfulness at every pore, however weary he may be.

He is adored wherever he passes naturally, and indefatigably he travels on. Good-night here; good-morrow there.

It sounds strange, the presence of this middle-aged bard with the fighting forces of the land, in the fortresses and garrisons of a modern fighting machine. Yet a singer of patriotic songs could nowhere get better inspiration than with the colors, and one almost wonders that a poet laureate is not always to be found in camp, as near as possible to the place where the battle may be raging.

There, at all events, the French forces have theirs. Botrel has set the example. There are many poets serving with the colors, of course; poetry does not exempt a Frenchman from his military services, and some of them find time occasionally to send a sonnet or a strophe home from the trenches.

Only Botrel has gone out with the bard's mission, and he is earning his medal in his way. When the war is over, and the country has time to think of recompenses, and prizes, and medals, the French academy will perhaps award one to the Breton Bard.

Watch Your Step.

A prominent country priest, well known for his humor, in speaking of a sad accident that befell one of our good ecclesiastical dignitaries the other evening, humorously remarked: "The man who goes along this mundane sphere keeping both eyes on heaven all the time is liable to trip and land in heaven pretty quick. But the man who always keeps one eye on heaven and the other good one on earth is liable to gain the best in heaven and earth."

Natural Mistake.

Little Eunice was very fond of her mother's friend, Mrs. Clayton, who had stopped in for a few moments on her way to an afternoon party. She was wearing a beautiful new gown. Little Eunice gazed at her for several seconds, speechless with admiration, and then burst out delightedly. "Oh, Mrs. Clayton, you look just like a fashion dish!"—Youth's Companion.

GERMAN-AMERICAN XMAS EXERCISES

CHRISTMAS TREE AND INTERESTING PROGRAM TO BE ENJOYED

AT THE ARCADE AMUSEMENT

HALL TOMORROW EVENING

A German Christmas celebration will be held at the Arcade amusement hall tomorrow evening under the auspices of the German-American society of Daytona. The entertainment will be similar to that given by the society last Christmas and in addition to the Christmas tree, which will bear gifts for the children of the members of the society and for poor children who may be known to the members, there will be a program of music and recitation.

The following invitation, issued by H. A. Intemann, chairman of the committee of arrangements, explains the scope and object of the celebration: "The membership of the society and their friends are herewith cordially invited to participate in the celebration of a good old German Christmas, Sunday evening, December 27th. This being a day to gladden the hearts of the children, our friends are respectfully requested to bring them a Christmas tree, and Santa Claus distributing presents for the little ones are the special features of the celebration. Come then, from far and near, and enjoy the evening with us. No admission fee and all are welcome."

"The exercises will begin at 7 p. m. in the main hall of the Arcade. Those desiring to make special donations for the needy poor on this occasion are invited to do so. Such donations may be given in charge of the committee members, care of Kreitzberg, who will make suitable disposition to needy ones."

Inspiration.

Half the difficulty of fighting any severe battle or accomplishing any hard task vanishes when a man feels that he has comrades at his side fighting in the same cause, or that the eyes of those he loves are upon him and their hearts praying for his victory.—C. J. Perry.

"MAN OF IRON" NOW IN LOCAL HOSPITAL

MORTON BEGGED TO DO HIS ACT
AT THE NEW DAYTONA THEA-TER ALTHOUGH VERY ILL—OP-ERATED UPON LAST NIGHT.

The Great Morton, "man of iron," who has been one of the big attractions at the theater this week, was removed from his dressing room to his hotel last evening just before his act. Dr. Roy Howe is the attending physician, and he absolutely refused to let him perform in the condition he is in. Mr. Morton has been suffering untold agony for many days, but has "worked" without exception on scheduled time. The stunt of letting an automobile run over his body hurried up his illness, but yesterday afternoon he was on hand again to perform the big free attraction. The management decided his health was of more importance than the free act, and called it off, though Morton begged to perform his act "with one foot in the grave." An operation last night gave temporary relief, and the members of the Gay New Yorkers, appearing for the last time here tonight, are hoping for his rapid recovery.

A Hard Blow.

"Poor Mrs. de Reegur is broken-hearted. They can't send her any more Paris gowns. That suit she's wearing was made here in town." "What a pity! I never saw her looking so well."

Truth.

Truth itself, according to Locke's fine saying, will not profit us so long as she is but held in the hand and taken upon trust from other minds, not wooed and won and wedded by our own.—George Elliot.

THE WEATHER.

Here is what the weather man sends: Cloudy tonight and much colder. Cold wave in northeast and central portions of Florida. Sunday fair, but cloudy in the south and central portions of the state. Strong north winds.

Thinkers.

"Men of thought" are the thinkers, the creators of ideas, the men who furnish the inspirations and theories, while "men of action" are the workers, who carry out the plans furnished by the others. Sometimes the two are combined in one, as in the case of Napoleon, Caesar, Da Vinci, who were at one and the same time great in both theory and practice.

Sheep and Human Beings.

Sheep will follow an old bell-wether through an opening in the fence in regular order, but human beings all want to get on the street car at the same time.—Toledo Blade.

The Destructive Auto.

An increase in parasitical diseases among poultry and game birds in England is attributed to the distribution of dust through air by automobiles.—Houston Post.

No Souvenir Desired.

A souvenir collector approached the manager of a famous restaurant and said: "Permit me, sir, to return this silver champagne bucket and this Sevres coffee set. I took the liberty, before I ordered my dinner, of appropriating them as souvenirs. But after the meal you served me—well, really—some things are better forgotten than souvenirs."
